Student wins Volunteer of the Year award

Geroff receives Prudential Spirit Community honor

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

Steve Geroff understands that volunteering his service to the community involves dedication and perseverance. Because of his volunteer efforts, Geroff was named the Granite City High School

Volunteer of the Year, for which he received the Prudential Spirit Community Award in October. "I didn't realize the community needs help from people other than civil servants," Geroff said. "High school and college students can have an impact on people's lives."

Now that Geroff has won the community award he is eligible for the Illinois Youth Award of the Year. Two state honorees, a middle school student and a high school student, will receive a $1,000 scholarship, a silver medallion and a trip in May to Washington D.C. with a parent or guardian to be recognized for their efforts.

District sells land parcel to YMCA

Plot may become home to new facility

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

The Granite City School District has sold a parcel of land along Pontoon Road to the Tri-City Area YMCA for the possible construction of a new YMCA facility. The parcel, located at 1620 Pontoon Road, was purchased for $200,000. The YMCA will make yearly payments beginning in January 2001 and will run through January 2020. The YMCA board recently hired a fund-raising group to plan a feasibility study to see if area businesses and the public would be interested in financially supporting a new YMCA. The feasibility study was a success and now the YMCA has hired the same company to begin fund-raising efforts.

Tri-City YMCA Board President John Papa said the new facility would consist of a wellness center and an area where youths can congregate to become educated through communication services, including computer software. The state-of-the-art facility, Papa said, would encompass an area of about 50,000 square feet and would also

Village approves rezoning

Some residents opposed to new development

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The rezoning of the former Lake Side Mobile Home Park was approved by the Pontoon Beach Village Board over objections of nearby residents Tuesday.

Board members voted unanimously to concur with the Zoning Board of Appeals' approval of the rezoning, which was never formally done - and approved a special use permit to allow the placing of up to 68 mobile homes on the property.

Residents opposed to the project said the village has ignored their complaints about traffic and flooding.

Mayor Jim Denham said the traffic issue would be addressed, and the project would include a retention pond to control flooding. Other complaints centered on the type of residents a trailer park would attract, which angered Denham.

"There is no way to please anybody from out there."

Jim Denham
Mayor

After a few more minutes of discussion by the audience, Denham stopped debate on the issue, and said, "There is no way to please anybody from out there."

Developers Timothy Stormer and Mark are planning to purchase the property and develop it as a 68-unit mobile home park. As presented by the developers, the mobile homes would be owned by the residents, with most being new and none more than 5-years-old.

The developers had asked the Zoning Board of Appeals to correct the zoning of the property to MR-2, which was not recorded correctly in Madison County records, and for a special use permit to allow the development of the mobile home park.

The Zoning Board had approved the MR-2 zoning, but the granting of the special use permit had been held up pending a required engineer report, which has been submitted to the village.

Action on the matter had been delayed for almost two months while village officials waited for the engineering

Scouting for Food just in time for area

Local food pantries are running low

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Since area food pantries are running low, the Trails of America is coming to the rescue. West Council of Boy Scouts of America is coming to the rescue.

This weekend Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts throughout the Metro East area will hang plastic bags on doorways as part of their Scouting for Food program. Residents are asked to put canned goods and other nonperishable items in the bags and hang them on the front door next Saturday, when the scouts will return and collect. Bags should be Gobbledygook? Even if it's not, enough is enough Let's not forget our past giants

Astronomer, astrophysicist and all around genius Stephen Hawking is modest about his place in science, quoting Sir Isaac Newton's 17th century explanation of his own place: "If I have seen further, it is by standing upon the shoulders of giants."

A contemporary of Newton, Robert Burton, put it this way to explain the movement that has become known as The Enlightenment: "A dwarf standing on the shoulders of a giant may see farther than a giant himself."

Both Newton and Burton were knowingly quoting the Roman poet Marcus Annaeus Lucanus, commonly known as Lucan, from his work "Didacticus Stella" written nearly a century and a half earlier: "Pignies placed on the shoulders of giants see more than the giants themselves."

"Pignies placed on the shoulders of giants see more than the giants themselves."
Marcus Annaeus Lucanus
Roman poet

Well, actually, what Lucan wrote, and Newton and Burton undoubtedly read, was "Pignies gigantum humeris impositi plasquam ipsi gigantes vident."

This literary treasure hunt comes to mind as school districts around the area send out their "1999 Illinois School Report Card" as mandated by the Illinois Educational Reform Act.

In the report cards we see class sizes and amount of contact with parents. We see numbers for SATs and ISATs and IGAPs and some IEPs and IDEAs that probably mean a lot to those deciding things like state funding and accreditation, but appear to the rest of us to show, like mythical Lake Wobegon, "All of the children are above average."

At the end of each report card is a place for the individual schools to list "planned improvement."

There, almost without exception, one finds phrases like "Internet networking," "technology literacy," "continuation of partnerships," "technology skills opportunities" and "communication opportunities."

In William Burroughs' era "getting wired" was anathema to pedagogical practice (why should education professionals get all the good jargon), but it is universally de rigueur today. Good natured jesting aside, there is nothing wrong with attempting, as the reform act attempts, to hold schools responsible for the achievement of their students. There is nothing wrong with schools filling out an annual report card to let the public know how they measure up to set criteria. There is nothing wrong with having schools make out an annual list of how they plan to get better. What one wonders is whether there is too much emphasis on new and not enough on improved. When Newton and Burton, as well as Rene Descartes and Robert Hooke and Jean Jacques Rousseau and Voltaire and the rest brought Europe, and Western Civilization, out of the Dark Ages, they had a giant to stand on.

The fact both Burton and Newton quoted Lucan attests to the firm base of common knowledge. The fact Hawking still quotes Lucan, at least in sentiment, 20 centuries later attests to the truth of Lucan's original thesis: We should build our knowledge upon all that has gone before.

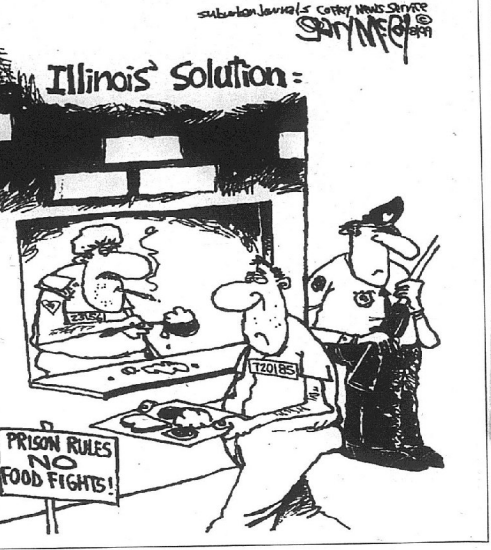

Is getting wired the right way to do it? There is no doubt the Internet and all its associated technology provide us with a mass of information, more information, perhaps, than in any other time in history.

One gets the impression, however, the information resembles, not a mountain, but an ocean.

And, to corrupt Lucan for the 21st century, a giant standing on the bottom of the ocean can't see nearly as much as a vertically challenged person on the beach.

And the giant stands a good chance of drowning as well.

Drive with care

TO THE EDITOR:
More than 23 million students throughout the country are riding school buses each day. Unfortunately, thousands of those children are injured and dozens more killed each year in mishaps involving school buses. Parents, teachers, students and motorists share the responsibility to prevent such tragedies from happening.

During National School Bus Safety Week, teachers reminded children of their own responsibilities related to student transportation. It is also important for drivers to take a moment to remember the children.

Let's remind ourselves of these important points:
The speed limit in school zones is reduced to a maximum of 20 miles per hour when children are present.
It is illegal to pass a school bus when it is stopped and the stop arm is extended.
Drivers must be aware that school buses make stops at all railroad crossings.
Kids don't always think or watch for danger. We must think and practice for them.

Please remember to drive with caution in school zones, around school buses and wherever children are present. Together, we can make Illinois roadways the safest in the nation for school children.

Child support answers

TO THE EDITOR:
No one is as disappointed as I am with the recent problems with the state of Illinois child support disbursement system. The Circuit Clerks in Madison County and St. Clair County did such a good job previously that we took them for granted. When a federal mandate forced the state to centralize its child support system, we lost the experience and commitment of our local people.

I am outraged by the poor performance of the new DuPage County system. In response to the numerous calls and letters from desperate parents and their families, my colleagues and I have urged the governor and his staff to fix this bureaucratic nightmare. The Committee on Child Support Enforcement will be meeting at noon Nov. 8 in Springfield to look at everything from what really went wrong to how the current emergency system is working.

Although an emergency system has been put into place, I'm still receiving calls at my office from frustrated parents. If the governor can't completely eliminate the problems with the new system by mid-November, I fully support switching back to the old system. I also believe that the state should reimburse families for any expenses such as late fees or interest charges caused by the problems in DuPage County.

We need to get some answers. Someone dropped the ball here. The families who have suffered at the hands of "Deadbeat Government" need their child support checks, and deserve answers.

Veto again

TO THE EDITOR:
Once again, the bill to ban the partial-birth abortion procedure will be sent to U.S. President Bill Clinton to sign. Unfortunately, he has again promised to veto this life-protecting bill.

We are grateful to congressmen Costello, Phelps and Shimkus from southern Illinois who voted to outlaw this inexcusable and painful act of infanticide, and also to Sen. Fitzgerald for his vote.

Unfortunately, amazement and disbelief abound as people who know better continue to allow such destruction to occur. In our midst, Sen. Richard Durbin still clings to misleading and inaccurate information as he defends his vote in favor of abortion and infanticide. It is even more hurtful coming from him than from Clinton.

Men and women across the nation, who have been hurt by abortion, are asking for help to heal from the grief and pain of the loss of their children. We must ask, "Why does our nation allow this? Why do we allow this exploitation of women and children? Why do we deny fathers their rights?"

The pro-abortion senators try to cloak the real issue in "politics." The real issue is the lives of countless unborn children and their grieving mothers and fathers.

While people who know better choose to look the other way, we will continue to pick up the pieces. If you know someone who is hurting after abortion call Project Rachel 1-800-618-HEAL or web: www.intertek.net/rachel.

Good for Hoffman

TO THE EDITOR:
I simply wanted to take a few moments to thank State Rep. Jay Hoffman for helping to secure the funding for the Collinsville Senior Center. I am genuinely looking forward to the new addition to the center.

As a senior, it sure is nice to have some place to go during the day. The Senior Center provides a great environment and a variety of recreational activities that I really enjoy. With more space, we will have more rooms, so we can have more activities going on at once.

I am really grateful to Hoffman for his efforts on our behalf. Thank you again Rep. Hoffman.

Park District survey shows support

Residents respond positively to construction of new community center

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Granite City Park

GRANITE CITY District residents responding to a survey support the construction and operation of a new community recreation center and a tax or bond issue to support it by a 5-1 margin.

Initial survey results also show that most people consider the Park District an important community asset, and are generally satisfied with it.

The survey is being promoted as part of the district's upcoming 5-year plan, which will be discussed at a public hearing Nov. 16 at the Broyard Recreational Center.

In the first part of the survey, residents were asked to give yes or no answers to questions dealing with the general direction the park district should take.

Asked whether the district should build and operate a new community recreation facility, the results were 46-15 in favor. A question on support for a tax increase or bond issue to pay for such a development received a 45-15 favorable response.

Three other questions - Should the park district increase the number of small to average sized neighborhood parks; should the park district acquire land and develop an additional large park; and should the park district acquire land and develop a golf course received unfavorable responses.

Increasing the number of small parks was 35-27 against. Creating another large park received a vote of 38-25 against, and residents rejected developing a golf course 40 to 22.

Given a list of possible activities to participate in, at least 20 responded that they wanted Fourth of July events, concerts, dance classes, art classes, first aid/CPR instruction and gardening/plant care classes.

Surveys can be submitted before or during the Nov. 16 meeting, and are available in this issue of the Granite City Journal or at the Park District office in Wilson Park.

Madison City Council approves alcohol consumption ordinance

Open containers banned from city streets; vehicle purchases approved

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

MADISON An ordinance banning the public consumption of alcohol in Madison was approved by the Council Tuesday.

The ordinance bans residents from having open containers of alcohol on city streets.

Previously, city ordinances dealt with public intoxication, but Police Chief Steve Skoklo said outlawing possession of open containers gives police a better ability to deal with unruly behavior.

Consumption of alcohol is already prohibited in city parks. The ordinance allows for permits for public fairs or other events, but in those cases the alcohol may not be in glass or metal containers.

Violators could be fined $50 to $750.

Council also approved purchasing several vehicles.

A low bid of $18,123 for an F-150 Ford truck from Jack Schmitt Ford in Collinsville was approved for the Street Department.

Members approved a lease/purchase agreement with Dave Clark for a truck hoe. The cost will be $50,000 - a $20,000 down payment and 24-monthly payments of $1,250.

Council also approved the purchase of an American Eagle fire truck for $87,250. The new fire truck is a smaller fire truck for use at Gateway International Raceway and other areas that would be difficult for a full-sized pumper to travel.

City officials have said that because of the raceway, Chouteau Island and other areas, such a truck was needed. Part of the cost of the truck will be paid with tax increment financing funds.

The Council also approved a contract with Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. to perform income projections for the city's TIF districts.

GRANITE CITY

A burglary occurred early Saturday morning at a residence in the 2100 block of Monroe Street.

According to a police report, the screen door to the victim's residence was pried open, as well as a window to the left of the front door. The report stated that many items were moved or strewn about, but nothing appeared to be stolen, including a large amount of jewelry. Police are investigating an attempted burglary that occurred at an apartment Friday evening in the 1500 block of Niedringhaus Avenue.

According to a police report, two persons tried to gain entry about 7 p.m. by the way of the front door with the aid of a screwdriver. The apartment is owned by St. Elizabeth Medical Center. A security guard for the hospital, the report stated, saw the individuals and was able to detain them without force until officers from the Granite City Police Department arrived.

Property damage - Criminal damage to property was reported to authorities late Friday evening by a person at a home in the 2400 block of Harding.

According to a police report, the man who reported the incident was watching television about 11:30 p.m., when he heard what sounded like a window breaking from the north side of the apartment. The man, 20, jumped to his feet, the report stated, looked out the broken window and saw two persons running north in the alley. Police are investigating and have a suspect, a 20-year-old Granite City woman.

Unlawful possession of cannabis - A Granite City teenager was charged Friday with unlawful possession of cannabis.

According to a police report, the teenager, 14, of the 2500 block of Denver allegedly brought cannabis to Good Hope Middle School Friday. The report stated that an anonymous student told educators that the teenager had cannabis in his possession. Police allegedly found a plastic bag containing a green leafy substance in the teenager's possession.

VENICE Shooting - An apparent drug deal gone bad led to a woman being shot in the buttocks Saturday in Venice.

According to reports, Venice police were notified that a woman was being treated for a gunshot wound she reportedly received in the 100 block of Madison Avenue at about 6:14 a.m. Saturday.

The victim, a 25-year-old Granite City woman, told police she had been buying drugs from two unidentified men when one of them tried to take her money and displayed a gun. The woman said she fought with the man, who eventually stopped fighting with her but said he was going to shoot her.

The woman then walked away, and heard a gunshot. A short time later she discovered she had been shot in the left buttock. The woman told police she then walked to the SEMC emergency room, where she was treated and eventually released.

Police are investigating the incident.

MADISON

Drug charges - A Brooklyn man faces several charges after being stopped by Madison police early Tuesday morning.

Jafar Z. Woolfork, 41, of the 200 block of North 1st Street, Brooklyn, was charged with driving with a suspended license, unlawful possession of drug paraphernalia, having no valid Illinois Firearm Owners Identification Card, and driving with one headlight.

Charges of possession of a controlled substance are pending. According to reports, at about 2:25 a.m. officers noticed a green and white Dodge pickup with one headlight in the area of Madison and Third Street.

When officers stopped the truck, a second check revealed Woolfork's license had been suspended. While taking an inventory of items in the truck, officers found a plastic baggie containing a white powder believed to be cocaine, several metal pads used to smoke crack cocaine, and a box of .22 caliber ammunition in the glove compartment.

Student wins award

"That would be a great honor, but there are many, many students who are deserving of that award," Geroff said.

The 16-year-old junior began his volunteer service in November 1998. Since then, he has spent more than 450 hours at churches and facilities in Granite City speaking to Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts about peer pressure and the negative effects of substance and alcohol abuse. To do so, Geroff spent a weekend in Marine to take abbreviated substance and alcohol abuse classes from DARE officers.

"I feel I've reached out to the kids and gave them an insight on alcohol and substance abuse and how to say no to them (drug dealers)."

Steve Geroff
Student

"I learned a lot there," Geroff said. "Consequently, I feel I've reached out to the kids and gave them an insight on alcohol and substance abuse and how to say no to them (drug dealers)."

Geroff also said he enjoys talking to the children and will continue to speak to them until he graduates because the conversations are fun, rewarding and at times challenging.

Geroff, who is the son of Robert and Rosemary Geroff, is on the school's math team and is a member of the chess, social studies and sciences clubs. He is also a member of the Boy Scouts of America. After he graduates Geroff plans to take college courses that will help him become a physical therapist.

be complete with a gymnasium, handball and racquetball courts, locker rooms for men, women boys and girls and administrative offices located in the center of the building. Other features would include a pool and aquatic area and multi-purpose rooms to be used for meetings and child care. Papa said that the facility would be constructed in a way that would be completely compatible to the surrounding neighborhood, would be located as far away from residential areas as possible, would have a greenspace area so that run-off water or flooding would not present a problem and would have a barrier to offer some protection for residents.

Papa added that the new YMCA building would blend into the community, would be beneficial to people of all ages in the Tri-City area and would benefit Granite City.

report.

The village has been attempting to clean up the previous mobile home park for years.

The mobile home park was first developed more than 20 years ago when standards for those types of developments were much looser or nonexistent. The park had deteriorated considerably by the 1990s.

However, there was little the village could do to force improvements.

In 1996, the village allowed the property to be purchased by St. Louis developer Ken Kropp, with the understanding that he would improve and expand the park, including removing and replacing all the existing mobile homes, and having all the new lots and homes meet present-day building codes.

However, by May 1998, nothing had been done, and the park had been in danger of losing its operating license from the Illinois Department of Public Health because it had failed inspections.

The village had taken legal action, but that was put on hold to allow the sale and redevelopment of the property. Since then the land has been cleared.

Scouting for Food just in time

shelves are empty, and if the scouts don't do this project, pantry directors would have to spend that much to meet the basic needs of thousands of families who depend on them."

Kinney said the project is important not only because of the help it provides, but what it does for the scouts involved.

"What makes it even more important is the fact that it is putting the Cub Scout Promise and the Scout Oath into action," he said. "This project teaches our kids that there is a severe problem of hunger in their own towns and that, not only should they do something about it, they can do something about it."

Fall is usually considered a very slow time for donations to food pantries. Part of the reason is that many people don't really think about food drives until the Christmas season.

"There are times there are a lot of donated canned goods, but there are times where it's just a trickle or the faucet is turned off," said Capt. Benjamin Stillwell of the Salvation Army of Southwestern Madison County. "September and October are months that are traditionally difficult."

When food pantries get low, agencies then have to use cash to purchase additional food.

For groups like the Salvation Army, that creates problems because that cash can be used to provide other services, such as helping people with utility bills or finding emergency shelter.

"We can always use canned goods," Stillwell said. "We really don't have a lot of donated things. We have basically had to purchase canned goods."

He said they have several other food drives planned, including one at the Edwardsville High School starting Nov. 12.

Stillwell said that since he came to this area, they have been "inundated" with requests for food.

Warriors dole out awards

Seniors McMillian, Mertz wear honors for Granite City

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Though the Granite City soccer season ended back on Oct. 30 in the IHSA sectionals against Edwardsville, the Warriors still had some unfinished business.

The postseason awards banquet took place Wednesday night at Granite City High School.

Senior Chris Mertz received the Dave Morgan award for unsung play and gentlemanly behavior.

"Chris had some real heroism against Belleville West and Belleville East (in two sectional victories)," Granite City soccer coach Gene Baker said. "He is such a fine human being in addition to the fact that he works physically so hard every day. It is neat to see him be rewarded for his efforts by scoring goals at the right time of the year. It was nice that the program could reward him with the Dave Morgan Award."

"The award traces itself back to a man who has since passed away. He was a guy who was a member of the Lettermans Club and supported all of the athletes here with funds, backing them for letters, banquets, and never said anything. In soccer alone, he was in attendance at seven or eight state

"At some point in the season they felt that they were the best. They received ranking and recognition and played an excellent schedule. They certainly have reasons for which they should hold their heads high."

tournaments before I ever knew who he was. "He was very quiet and unassuming, and that award has been given to someone who exemplifies gentlemanly conduct, good sportsmanship, hard work and team contribution. I think certainly Chris Mertz typifies that."

The Senior MVP Award went to sweeper Jarod McMillian.

"Jarod McMillian got that award because of his everyday leadership, work ethic and contribution to the team's attempt to progress in any way that they could," Baker said.

McMillian, Justin Roehr and Mike Smith also received first-team all-Southwestern Conference and all-Tournament of Champions honors. Smith, a junior, also landed on the all-state team.

Second-team all-conference honors went to sophomore Rich Edwards, junior Phil Reader and senior Jeremy Hickam. Seniors Ian Kessel, Josh Peacher and Chad Bridgeman received honorable mention.

With the 1999 season now complete - the Warriors lost to Edwardsville, which lost to eventual state champion East Moline United Township - Granite City can look ahead to 2000 with high hopes.

"Their accolades are very good," Baker said. "I am happy about having nine kids honored. And yet all of this creates a super positive look for next year, with an all-state player and two second-team all-conference players returning. The sophomore group will be something to be enthused about, becoming juniors next year."

"The 16-2 record was a season of which they can be proud. At some point in the season they felt that they were the best. They received ranking and recognition and played an excellent schedule. They certainly have reasons for which they should hold their heads high."

Senior Jarod McMillian received the Senior MVP Award at Wednesday night's banquet at Granite City High School. A sweeper, McMillian secured the award with his leadership and work ethic.

Grigsby devoured opponents

Gators teams post combined 28-3 record

Special to the Press-Record

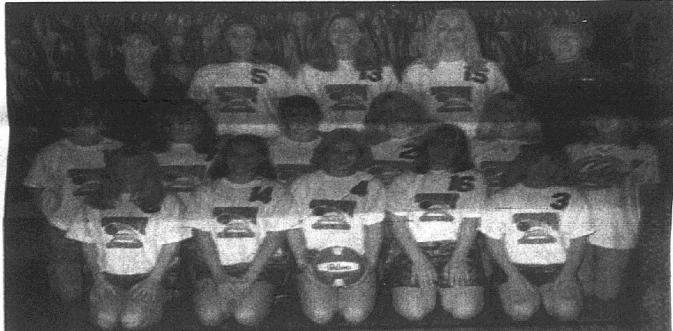

The Grigsby Gator volleyball teams had very successful seasons this year.

JUNIOR VOLLEYBALL
The Grigsby seventh-grade team finished second in the Madison County Conference with a record of 12-2. The team was coached by Judy Collins. Letter winners were Olivia Antognoli, Amy Millon, Lyndsie Meyenburg, Darrah Demaree, Jamie Davis, Amie Carr, Krista Legate, Ashley Bush, Jessica Martin, Ashley Finch, Danae Hankes and Jaleah Arico.

The Gators eighth-grade team finished 16-1, including an unbeaten run through the city tournament. The Gators only lost three games and won 37 during their 17 matches. They posted four shutouts and limited their opponents to five points or less in 17 other games.

The Gators clinched the Madison County Junior Conference in the final game of the year, posting a 15-7, 15-3 victory against the Collinsville North Junior High T-Birds.

Ten of the 13 girls on the squad scored 20 points or more during the season, led by Members of the Grigsby eighth-grade volleyball team include, from left, front row, Ashley Roberts, Jessica Meyenburg, Jennifer Lloyd, Lucy Johnicec, Alicia Bodkin; second row, Voegele, Erica Carney, Jessica Pacatte, Whitney Sykes, Brittany Fuzessery, Ashley Krug; last row, coach Judy Collins, Lynsey Holloway, Rachael Wilbur, Lindsay Wallace and coach Connie King.

Brittany Fuzessery, who had 96 points for the year and provided timely hitting for the team. Whitney Sykes scored 85 points and led in assists for the team, while the third-leading scorer was Jessica Pacatte, who ended with 72 points and played both as a setter and a hitter. Alicia Bodkin and Lynsey Holloway shared in the setting duties.

while Rachael Wilbur, Ashley Roberts, Lindsay Wallace, Lucy Johnicec, Jessica Meyenburg, Kristin Voegele, Erica Carney and Jennifer Lloyd combined as hitters on the squad. The team had an overall serving percentage of 92 percent. This team also won the conference championship as seventh-graders and has a two-year record of 29-4.

The game at Collinsville marks the last volleyball match for Grigsby coach Connie King, who has been at the helm of the Gators since 1984. This was the third team to win the conference in her tenure - the 1989 team was undefeated at 12-0, and the 1994 Gators shared the title with a record of 11-3.

Senior Jessica Worthen was named Best Team Leader for the Granite City volleyball squad on Wednesday.

Worthen honored for her leadership

Bogovich, Janek also recognized

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City volleyball team closed the season Wednesday night by handing out awards for excellence.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL
The Most Improved Award went to senior Jeanna Janek. "I saw a lot of improvement from Jeanna throughout the season," Granite City volleyball coach Ruth Layton said. "She worked very diligently on her skills."

"At the beginning of the season she was coming in off of the bench, but by the end of the season was starting a few games. She did a nice job in full rotation and had a great spirit on the court."

The Best Serve Award was handed to junior Ashley Bogovich.

"Ashley deserved that award because of her consistency," Layton said. "She did a nice job."

And finally, the Best Team

Leader Award went to veteran senior Jessica Worthen.

"She led throughout the season with a positive attitude," Layton said. "She made sure that everybody was working very hard on their skills and made sure that the team gelled on and off the court. She welcomed the new kids to the court and just did a nice job all-around."

Though a handful of individuals were singled out and rewarded for their effort, Warriors volleyball is all about six girls playing together as a unit.

"It's very difficult to pick and choose out of a full group because it is a team sport and we treat it as such," Layton said. "If the team wins, we win together, but if we lose, we lose together as well. It's not just on one particular person or athlete."

"It's very difficult for the coaching staff to pick and choose for these awards. But these girls were outstanding in each of those areas and did a nice job for us."

SIUE considered for Class AA tourney

Metro East's soccer powers proved hosting skills in this year's Class A playoffs

Now that the athletic officials from Collinsville, Edwardsville and Granite City high schools have dutifully performed their tasks for three years at the first three IHSA Class A boys state soccer tournaments at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, they're hoping the payoff comes next soccer season.

Although none of the schools would ever have a team in the Class A tournament - all three schools are Class AA in soccer - their athletic directors, nonetheless, took on the duties of hosting the Class A event in the southernmost state finals tournament in Illinois history.

Why?

There are several reasons. First of all, SIUE has the best soccer facility in the state - bar none, no debate.

Secondly, the three schools have hosted IHSA Class AA sectional and super-sectional soccer events in the past at SIUE. Thirdly, the three schools, along with East St. Louis Senior High School, also have hosted the Class AA basketball sectional at SIUE for a number of years at the Vandalabene Center, another athletic jewel in Southern Illinois.

So, they had a track record of working with SIUE officials.

Bob Emig

Lastly - and before we give the schools too much credit for their benevolence - they saw an opportunity for their soccer-rich schools to have an opportunity to play in a state finals before the home folks by working the Class A finals and proving to the IHSA bigwigs that they know how to run a state tournament.

There's never been anything in writing, but there certainly are good vibes about SIUE being the site for next fall's Class AA boys soccer finals. There's been a lot smoke, so there must be a fire somewhere.

IHSA associate executive director Marty Hickman, at SIUE over the weekend for the Class A finals, said a decision could be made in January at the IHSA Board of Directors meeting about moving the Class AA tournament from the Wedgbury Soccer Complex in Loves Park, near Rockford, to SIUE. The Class A tournament finals would then be played at Wedgbury.

"All we know for sure is that the state finals will be held at SIUE and at Wedgbury next year," Hickman said. "We're just not sure which site will have which tournament."

The thinking is that SIUE might be the site of the Class AA tournament every four or five years. The reason the tournament would not be played there more often is the expense and other difficulties associated with having the large schools - and their fans - from northern Illinois drive four hours to the tournament every year. But every four or five years wouldn't be unreasonable.

This year, for instance, the closest of the final eight Class AA teams was East Moline, which beat Edwardsville in the Class AA super-sectional at SIUE to advance to the state finals. East Moline is a good four hours from Edwardsville.

"Anything would be an improvement from what we have now," Collinsville athletic

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP
Tony Stewart equaled on lifetime rookie record by winning for the second time in the Dura Lube 500K at Phoenix International Raceway. The 28-year-old Indiana native and Pontiac driver led nearly half the laps and easily outpaced Mark Martin's Ford.
Dale Jarrett overcame adversity — a flat tire briefly put him a lap down — and finished sixth, enabling him to close in on his first Winston Cup championship.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL
Jeff Gordon won his first Busch Grand National race in seven years, the Outback 200 at Phoenix. Just as significantly, Dale Earnhardt Jr. clinched his second series championship with a runner-up finish. Both drove Chevrolet Monte Carlos.

1999 WINSTON CUP SCHEDULE

Nov. 14	Miami-Dade Homestead Motorsports Complex	Homestead, Fla.
Nov. 21	Atlanta Motor Speedway	Hampton, Ga.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

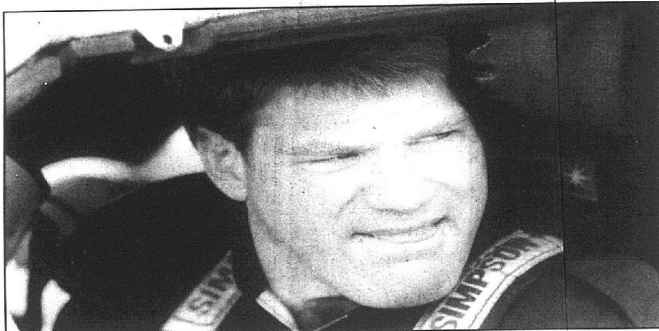

Rusty Wallace vs. Geoffrey Bodine

A pit-road melee with Wallace cost Bodine what potentially could have been an opportunity to win. Steve Park was also involved, but his Chevrolet was hardly damaged. At the time of the melee, Bodine had spent almost all the race in the top five. He wound up 22nd.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Wallace deserves credit for being a stand-up guy and taking the blame for the incident, which occurred prior to the halfway point. Yes, it was 'one of those racing deals.' No, that didn't make Bodine, who has been struggling all year, feel any better."

PROFILE

Steve Grissom

John G./NASCAR This Week

Steve Grissom has been reduced to occasional appearances in Winston Cup.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week
Steve Grissom, once considered one of stock car racing's more promising young drivers, has never been able to quite turn the corner in the Winston Cup Series.

Grissom is one of many NASCAR drivers to have risen from the ranks of Alabama short-track drivers. Once a power to be reckoned with at almost every race, the "Alabama Gang" has been reduced to occasional appearances in the Winston Cup ranks, as drivers like Grissom and Hut Stricklin have been unable to fulfill the legacy of forefathers like the Allison and Neil Bonnett.

Once a fine high-school football player, Grissom won the Busch Grand National championship in 1993. In NASCAR's chief support series, Grissom has won 11 times, most recently at Daytona in 1996.

AGE: 36
HOMETOWN: Gadsden, Ala.
WIFE: Susan
CHILDREN: Two
CAR: Grissom has driven several different cars in Cup competition this year.
RECORD: BGN — 230 starts, 4 poles, 11 wins, 42 top-five finishes, 74 top-10s, $1,311,471 in career earnings
FIRSTS: In Busch Grand National — Start (Sept. 6, 1986, at Richmond), pole (July 28, 1990, at New River Valley), win (July 28, 1990, at New River Valley).

Who's Hot... Who's Not

- HOT: Tony Stewart's victory was his 20th top-10 finish.
- NOT: Bill Elliott has finished outside the top 10 in 14 straight.

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Is it true ESPN has been bought out by Jarrett-Gordon Enterprises? Too bad. Most fans would like to know what the other 40 are doing in a race.

Jack Chapman

No such company exists.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
In watching the victory at Talladega, which was won by Dale Earnhardt, I'm very upset by all the booze flowing and sprayed around in victory lane. The races are watched by thousands of kids. What kind of a message does this send out to them? It's OK to win, celebrate and get in a drunken stupor?

Elton Shelly
Mercersburg, Pa.

The spraying of champagne after a victory is not uncommon in other forms of sports.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Jeff Gordon's behavior shows that he is the best and fairest driver on the NASCAR circuit. The reason that people boo him is because they cannot accept a young driver who is not one of the "good old boys."

Bob Knight
Frankfort, Ind.

The author wants us to know he is not the Indiana University basketball coach.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Why does Buddy Baker always say the same things in favor of Mark Martin and no one else.

The officials of NASCAR should look into this and put a stop to it.

Antique Bottle and Jar Show

Yancey Von Yeast, of Waterloo, examines a wine glass.

Antique bottles and glass filled the Gateway Convention Center on Sunday, while 500 visitors came through the door. Vendors from 21 states used 140 tables to showcase their collection of various bottles. The first Sunday of every November, the Metro East Antique Bottle and Jar Association hosts this show. This is the 28th year for the show and the fifth year it has been hosted at the Gateway Center. "There are usually a bunch of collectors who like to sell, trade and talk about their collections," Terry Miller, show chairman, said. "There is always some local interest, too."

In 1971, the club was created for members to share their information with other collectors, promote their hobby through various activities, and provide a place where people with the same interest can meet. Many times, the association holds programs with topics including fruit jars, stoneware, marbles and soda and beer bottles.

Officials want solution to child support problem

Return state check disbursement to county level until problems have ironed out, say Hoffman and Melucci

By Deborah L. Bates
Staff writer

State Rep. Jay Hoffman (D-Collinsville) and Madison County Circuit Clerk Matt Melucci announced Friday they are requesting an immediate remedy to the chaos caused by a new statewide program for disbursement of child support checks.

Hoffman and Melucci said they will ask the state of Illinois to temporarily return child support disbursement system responsibilities back to the county level until the problems have been ironed out. Hoffman said that on any given day, there could be between 1,000 and 3,000 checks that are behind.

"We need to get children their checks, and we need to get them soon," Hoffman said.

"We've gotten call after call after call, day after day, from custodial parents who are not receiving the needed funding," he said. "This is an emergency situation that we need to call on the governor to act on immediately and allow the clerks to collect the funds for the disbursement center."

Since a central state disbursement center took over the duties on Oct. 1, several custodial parents have not received their child support checks or have seen significant delays.

"They're talking about inability to pay important bills such as utilities and rent, buying food, paying day-care services," Melucci said. "It's heartbreaking, quite frankly, and our clerks are getting these calls every day. Our whole goal is to get the money to the children who deserve it. This isn't a welfare program; this is court-ordered money for their support."

Officials with the Illinois Department of Public Aid said the problems were because all the correct information had not been sent with the checks. Joyce Jackson, chief of communications for the department, said some employers didn't include company identification numbers and the docket numbers. Without this information, she said, the checks can't be distributed.

State officials advised parents and officials that the system would be beginning smoothly by the beginning of the month, yet parents still are seeing problems.

"Now, we're over a month into this, and the problems still persist," Hoffman said. "Maybe the numbers have decreased, and maybe the late checks have decreased somewhat, but we used to have a system where there weren't late checks, and we used to have a system where the court-ordered money got to the children, and we don't have that now."

Melucci said there were very few problems with the former system. He said their goal always was to get the payment to the parents within 24 hours of receiving the payment from employers. His office is supposed to be able to inform custodial parents in Madison County about the status of their checks; however, the computer that the state gave the office is not working.

"There's been some people in the state who have pointed out fingers at the local circuit clerk and said that the problem lies with the local circuit clerk," Hoffman said.

"There's nothing further from the truth. And I think that that's just the bureaucrats in Springfield trying to make excuses for their ineptness, and quite frankly, that offends me, because it worked well until they started taking over the system."

International, local missions important to area church

Metro East Christian Fellowship sees it as part of duty

By April Calvin
Staff writer

The Metro East Christian Fellowship sees mission work as part of its Christian duty.

"The goal is to present Christ as the way of salvation to people who have not heard, and secondarily to establish churches," Pastor Richard Bersett said. "As one person said, empty bellies have no ears."

Bersett, who has been preaching for 26 years, was MECF's founding pastor.

"We support people who feel called," Bersett said. With a congregation of over 200, MECF sponsors its members on both long and short-term missions.

Short-term missions may last only a few days, weeks or months.

"Because they're short-termers, we're pretty reticent about where we send them, and how we send them," said Bersett.

Upcoming missions include small groups headed for Jamaica in December and Haiti in January, and a group of teens will travel to Mexico over the Christmas holiday.

Though missionaries are occasionally dispatched to hostile territories, going of their own free will and with full knowledge of the risks, the MECF generally sends its people to relatively safe zones.

"We're normally going to replace the Christian faith in already established," Bersett said. "We're very well-received."

Missionaries do not just proselytize (they prefer the term evangelize), but offer communities in need a helping hand. They bring supplies of food, medicine, and clothing, and help to erect buildings, often churches.

MECF has also aided some of the more than 17,000 Bosnian refugees in the St. Louis area and helped build shelters for the bombed-out in Kosovo.

Bersett said, "Whatever comes up when we're on sight; we just help hands-on when we're there."

"Some of the missionaries we support are under the auspices of other missionary organizations," Bersett said, and are funded by many churches and Christian groups.

The Gateway Missionsfest will bring together like-minded Christian groups next weekend at St. Louis' Hope Church. Over 30 mission agencies will be there to offer information, share their experiences and spread inspiration around like icing on a sticky bun.

MECF will be represented at the conference. A couple of years ago, they offered a workshop on Adopt-a-People. The church worked with other missionaries to provide cattle and sheep for families of the Fulani-Wodabai people in Niger who lost theirs to drought.

Church secretary and 12-year veteran of the missions field, Lori DeCarvalho, was among those who traveled to Niger for a week to work with other missionaries, and to contribute to local aid efforts.

Many honored at annual Clean Air Recognition Awards luncheon

Recipients range from van pooler to St. Louis Science Center

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Individuals, companies and organizations were honored Thursday for their efforts at improving regional air quality at the annual Clean Air Recognition Awards Luncheon last week.

Award recipients ranged from a nine-year van pooler to the St. Louis Science Center.

The ceremony was held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel at Union Station and was sponsored by RideFinders.

RideFinders, operated by the Madison County Transit District, coordinates van and car pool information, and promotes ridesharing in a seven-county area on both sides of the Mississippi River.

JR Kyle, of Washington, Mo., received the Vanpool Award. He has participated in a van pool to B.C. for nine years.

Karon McCoy, of Forest Hill, Mo., received the Carpool Award. She has participated in car pools, cycling and mass transit to get to work at the Social Security Office in St. Louis since 1976. She also serves as the Employee Transportation coordinator at her workplace.

Patricia Willett, of Pacific, Mo., was given the Mass Transit Award. She has been riding BLS buses to work each day at Alliance Blue Cross/Blue Shield since 1993.

James Curly, of South City, began bicycling to work at the Washington University Medical School library five years ago. He was presented with the Bicycling Award.

Allen Bleat, of Florissant, received the Telecommuting Award. Bleat, who works for Sprint, began telecommuting in July 1997 when his company made it difficult to fit all the personnel into the Interstate 270 office.

Teresa Day, an employee at first, hosted numerous events with RideFinders to educate employees about the benefits of ridesharing and registering for car and van pools. She was given the Outstanding Employee Transportation Coordinator of the Year Award.

Fred Potthast, an employee of Didion & Son's Foundry, was presented with the New ECT Coordinator of the Year Award. Potthast works to educate employees about ridesharing, and also rides in a van pool.

Barb Klein of MCI Worldcom's Town & Country office, received the 1999 Rideshare Week Award. Klein gathered more than 100 pledges during the annual Rideshare Week promotion, and almost three-fourths of those people requested a matchlist for car and van pools.

Schnucks Markets received the Ongoing Commitment to Clean Air Award.

Schnucks was honored for helping "generate measurable results in the clean air effort" including selling most of the 15 air Quality Cards purchased by customers this year.

St. Louis Science Center was honored for its efforts at educating the public about air quality, most visibly through the air quality sign placed on the overpass during ozone season with the Outreach and Education Award.

"While the overpass sign is the most obvious display of the St. Louis Science Center's outreach efforts, the staff at the center also teamed with the American Lung Association and the St. Louis Regional Clean Air Partnership to offer a series of educational programs to address air quality issues," RideFinders Program Manager Jane Smith said.

The Outstanding Reduction in Fleet Emissions Award went to LaCade Gas Co. LaCade Gas Co. has promoted the use of clean-burning alternative fuels, including the construction and maintaining of the Bi-State Development Agency's compressed natural gas fueling system.

The St. Louis Metropolitan Sewer District was recognized with the Outstanding Institutional Contribution Award for its decision to postpone a hazardous waste collection event during the summer's ozone season.

"Because the event would have attracted thousands of participants, MSD realized the potential negative impact the traffic volume might have had on the region's air quality during the height of the smog season," Smith said.

Raymond Marbury of Maritz was honored with the Clean Air Coordinator of the Year Award for being instrumental in establishing many of the company's clean air practices, including getting clean air initiatives added to the company's safety handbook.

Trivia

Test your Lucille Ball knowledge

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

There is a reason why television networks keep showing the old reruns of "I Love Lucy." They are still funny.

This is amazing. The same humor that had families laughing in the 1950s has won fans in my young nieces and nephews. I continue to be entertained by episodes I've seen in reruns maybe 20 or more times each.

Lucille Ball was a riot, at least on "I Love Lucy." Her later programs, such as "The Lucy Show" and "Here's Lucy" had their moments, but, never approached the level of quality generated by Lucy, Ricky, Fred and Ethel.

Picking a favorite episode of "I Love Lucy" is one hard task. Some would choose the one in which she tries to keep pace with a conveyor belt in a chocolate factory. Others might opt for the show where she gets into a fight with a woman while they are stomping grapes at a winery. Still others likely would go for the "Vitameatavegamin" episode. I would not mind seeing any one of these right now.

I see Lucille Ball as a fascinating woman. She was born in 1911 in Jamestown, N.Y., and got her foot in the door of show business as a Goldwyn Girl in the 1930s. If you have ever seen a photo of her from her chorus girl days, you know that she was an outright babe. She apparently was an excellent businesswoman.

It's a kick to see her pop up in old shows. I have seen her with the Three Stooges and in films with such entertainers as the Marx Brothers, Bob Hope and Red Skelton.

For this week's trivia quiz, the questions concern Lucille Ball and her movies and shows.

1. What was the name of her 1986 sitcom that lasted on air for about two months?

Area health clubs encourage winter fitness

By Larry Ingram
Staff writer

Area health and exercise enthusiasts say that now is the perfect time to develop the exercise habits that will carry you through the holiday season. And though it has been unseasonably warm for November, chilly weather is just around the corner.

"I would recommend getting involved in an exercise program while the weather is nice and then continuing it during the winter," said Aaron

Freidenberg, assistant manager at the Livrite Fitness Center in Belleville. "It doesn't help when we go to all of the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's parties."

Freidenberg says he recommends walking and treadmills as a good starting point for an exercise program.

"I recommend treadmills," Freidenberg said. "When it gets cold, people will come into the clubs and walk on the tread mills. That's good exercise."

Aerobics exercises are popular at many of the health clubs in the Metro East.

"We have lots of aerobics classes in fall. Cardio kickboxing is really popular. We also have step aerobics," Freidenberg said.

"We recommend 20 to 60 minutes of aerobic and then some kind of strength toning," said Leisure World Fitness manager Mark Lymberopoulos in Collinsville.

Lymberopoulos says exercise may be just the thing to keep the mental and emotional demands of the holidays in check.

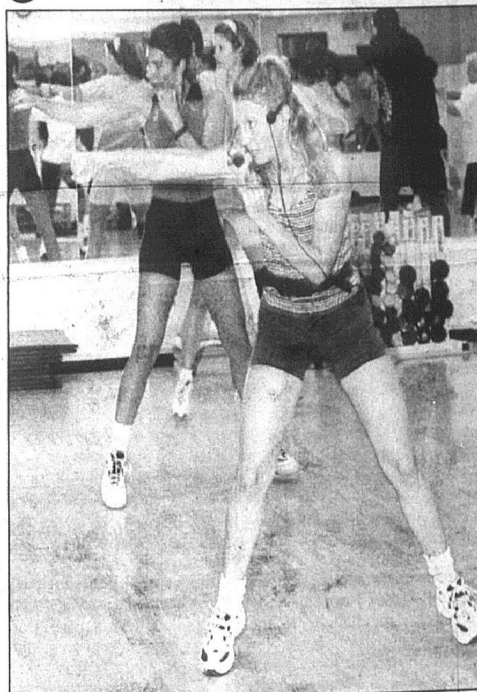

"People are exercising today because of the mental aspects," Lymberopoulos said.

That can often translate into people coming in and working out year round, he said.

"The habit of coming over and exercising only during the wintertime is fading out because people can see the benefit of exercising all the time," Lymberopoulos said. "A lot of people are making exercise a part of their lifestyle."

Most of the time, it's a matter of balance, he said.

"You just have to come in two or three time a week for 20 minutes to an hour at a time," Lymberopoulos said. "You have to balance it into your

Fitness centers will usually have a fitness trainer who can help get you started on an exercise program that is geared to your specific exercise needs.

"Stay on it," said Freidenberg. "Keep the one that you have through the wintertime."

'The Limey' offers weird hybrid of action, art films

By Brian Kaller

We first see Wilson (Terence Stamp) on a plane to America, after receiving word that his daughter is dead. Wilson is a sad and aging career criminal, the "limey" (slang for Englishman) of the title. He had proudly watched her grow up "in increments" while in and out of prison, and had not seen her since she went to Southern California seeking fame.

The newspaper clipping said she drove off a cliff, and that police suspected drugs or suicide. Wilson believes there is more to the story, and that his daughter was murdered.

With the help of his daughter's friends, a Mexican ex-con (Dave Guzman) and her acting coach (Lesley Ann Warren), Wilson learns as much as he can about his daughter's last days. He suspects her boyfriend Terry Valentine (Peter Fonda), a wealthy record producer who is already on his next teenage girlfriend. With no plan but revenge, the uneducated but canny Wilson methodically tracks down Valentine's underworld ties and begins to piece together the truth.

A brief outline of the plot - Wilson taking out henchmen one by one until going mano-a-mano with Valentine at the climax - sounds like any Charles Bronson or Steven Seagal movie. But "The Limey" is not a mediocre shoot-'em-up - it is a strange and remarkable film. It's like someone took an old action script and tried to make an art movie out of it, ending up with a weird hybrid animal.

Instead of filming this story in a straightforward way, director Steven Soderbergh puts it together as one would assemble a jigsaw puzzle: scenes appear out of sequence, bits of dialogue are heard before their context, slow-motion sequences are repeated throughout. It is a more extreme version of the broken chronology Soderbergh used in his last movie, the superb "Out of Sight," (also about an aging career criminal), or that Quentin Tarantino has used in films like "Pulp Fiction."

Even scenes we've seen in a hundred other movies - Wilson gunning down drug dealers or throwing a henchman off a balcony - are seen from a distance and partly left to our imagination. Most interesting are the flashbacks to Wilson and his daughter - instead of using another actor to play a young Terence Stamp, Soderbergh inserts footage from one of Stamp's first movies, Ken Loach's 1967 film "Poor Cow."

'Story of Us': funny, teary, endearing movie

What happens when the most engaging, soulmate couple you know hits

Rob Reiner tries to answer that question in "The Story of Us," a funny, teary, endearing movie that marks the director's return to the romantic comedy formula he mined so well in "When Harry Met Sally..."

Starring Bruce Willis and Michelle Pfeiffer, "The Story of Us" might be alternately titled "When Harry and Sally Grew Sick and Tired of Each Other 15 Years Down the Road."

Willis and Pfeiffer play Ben and Katie Jordan, a picket-fence perfect couple with two oh-so-lovable children whom real-life parents would salivate to sire.

As the film opens, the family is together at the dinner table, playing a daily quiz, asking one another about their highs and lows of the day. For critics who rail against Hollywood sex and violence, it's precisely the portrait of family values they want the movie industry to present.

Yet as the kids wander off to prepare for summer camp, it becomes clear that all is not well with Mom and Dad. Though seemingly suited to a T, their marriage has dried up from the sheer wear and tear of the job of staying together.

Their moments alone are either thunderous with arguments or more thunderous with silence. They don't make eye contact much any more, afraid they might find there's no one there. So Ben and Katie go their separate ways. They split while the children are away and begin to contemplate the next question: one lawyer or two?

Though well-produced, though at times mildly interruptive, flashbacks, the movie presents snapshots of the Harry and Sally that Ben and Katie used to be. It balances nicely with the present-tense George and Martha they've become.

Basically, it's all over but the shouting. And the Jordans do alot of shouting.

Recalling their first meeting, when Katie donned a pith helmet to ward off the paper-clips Ben hurled her way in jest, he asks, "What happened to that fun girl? ... Where did she go?"

'The Limey'

weird action, art hybrid

Soderbergh, one of the most interesting and under-appreciated directors in America, began his career ten years ago with "Sex, Lies and Videotape," a basement-budget film which rose to international acclaim in the manner of "The Blair Witch Project" this year. However, his highly experimental films since then have received mixed reviews and relentless obscurity.

Instead of filming this story in a straightforward way, director Steven Soderbergh puts it together as one would assemble a jigsaw puzzle: scenes appear out of sequence, bits of dialogue are heard before their context, slow-motion sequences are repeated throughout.

But Soderbergh can be brilliant - in 1993, he directed the lovely "King of the Hill," (no relation to the TV series), a story of St. Louis in the 1930s, and a movie you really should seek out. He also made the crime thriller "Out of Sight," with George Clooney and Jennifer Lopez, easily one of the best movies of 1998.

Unfortunately, experiments don't always work, and his avant-garde approach becomes overdone and distracting at certain points.

But while "The Limey" is not as impressive as "Out of Sight" or "King of the Hill," it is a fascinating film, and well worth a look.

'Story of Us': funny, teary, endearing

It's no surprise that Pfeiffer shines in the darker, dramatic moments. Her fits of comedy, infusing Katie with an infectious spiritedness and goofy good humor that makes it clear why Ben is the more reluctant of the pair to consign their fortunes to divorce court.

Pfeiffer and Willis get excellent support from Paul Reiser, Julie Hagerty, Tim Matheson and Betty White, Red Buttons, Jayne Meadows and Tom Poston as Ben and Katie's parents. Reiner and Rita Wilson are priceless as the Jordans' best friends, the couple Ben and Katie think of as their Fred and Ethel Mertz.

Reiner pontificates on the false nomenclature of the derriere, while Wilson has a wonderful scene in which she compares the sexual apparatus of the genders, advising that the female anatomy must relax and realize that the male anatomy is a "peaceful visitor."

Anyone who's experienced the painful end of a long relationship might snort at the reasoned and reasonable approach the Jordans cop once they decide to separate. They also might find it a stretch that nothing more overt than the mileage of the years, plus an overheard conversation in which hubby discusses his spousal problems with another woman, could jeopardize a marriage so enviably better than almost anyone else's.

Pfeiffer and Willis carry it off, though. They demonstrate endearing chemistry and sincerity as the Jordans in both the happy years and the spiteful ones.

The Universal Pictures release was produced by Rob Reiner, Jessie Nelson and Alan Zweibel and is rated R for strong language and sexual content.

Consumers should educate themselves before buying firewood

Many people will "throw another log on the fire" as autumn's cooling off period turns into winter and wind chill factors.

As colder temperatures set in across the state, many Missouri residents begin to buy firewood to keep those fires stoked. Before purchasing wood, the state Department of Agriculture wants to make sure customers

"Because buying and selling firewood is usually a fairly informal transaction, it is difficult to regulate."

Steve Gill
Supervisor of DW&M

know they are getting what they paid for.

"This is the time of year when we begin to receive complaints from consumers who were gyped when buying firewood," said Steve Gill, supervisor of the Division of Weights and Measures and commodity inspection program.

The program enforces laws that govern transactions involving weighing and measuring devices.

"Because buying and selling firewood is usually a fairly informal transaction, it is difficult to regulate," Gill said. "That is why we'd like consumers to educate themselves before buying firewood."

The complaints generally come from consumers who have received less wood than they paid for, Gill said. In most cases, it's an honest mistake and sellers will issue a refund or deliver additional wood. However, sometimes it is the work of a dishonest salesperson, so consumers should beware.

A cord of wood should measure four feet high, four feet wide and eight feet long. A cord also can measure two feet wide, four feet high and 16 feet in length. As long as the dimensions of the stacked wood equal 128 cubic feet it can be called a cord of wood, Gill said.

Customers can buy more or less than a cord, but it must be a multiple of 128 cubic feet.

There are other ways of buying firewood and consumers using these methods should be aware that they may not be receiving a cord of wood or a supply that measures in multiples of 128 cubic feet. For example, it is customary to sell firewood by the truckload, which might not equal a cord.

"Don't assume that terms such as truckload, face cord, rack or pile guarantee the amount of firewood is a cord," Gill said. "We encourage consumers to stack and measure their firewood upon delivery to ensure they received the amount they purchased."

Of course, some consumers still will come up short after the wood is stacked and purchased, and the deliverer is gone.

To ensure customers get what they paid for, Gill recommends following these tips when buying firewood:

- * When placing an order, ask how the seller measures the wood and make sure those standards are precise and accurate.

- * Don't pay for the wood unless it has been stacked and measured it.

- * Ask family, friends or neighbors to recommend sellers with whom they have had positive business exchanges.

- * Get a receipt with the seller's name, address and telephone number and the price, amount and kind of wood bought. Write down the license number of the delivery vehicle.

- * If a customer suspects a problem, contact the seller before burning any wood.

- * If the problem cannot be resolved, contact the Division of Weights and Measures at (573) 751-5639. The division can take steps to ensure the seller honestly represents the amount of wood being sold or can order sales to stop.

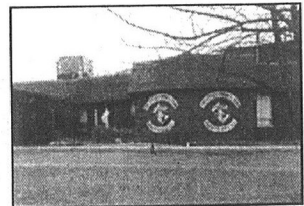

Many convenience stores offer small stocks of firewood for sale. Because they are usually less than one-eighth of a cord, the bundles should be measured in cubic feet. To further protect the consumer, the bundles must be labeled with the quantity and the seller's name and address.
